The Giza Pyramids Complex is a monumental masterpiece, built around 2600 BC, designed to ensure the Pharaohs' passage to the afterlife. Explore these vast structures that have fascinated humanity for millennia.

The Great Pyramid of Giza

Built around 2570 BC, the Great Pyramid, the last remaining of the original Seven Wonders of the Ancient World, stands as a testament to the genius of its architect, Hemiunu. This monumental structure rises to 147 meters and continues to awe visitors with its precision and grandeur.

The Great Sphinx

This legendary figure, carved by Pharaoh Khafre (2558–2532 BC), combines the face of the Pharaoh with the body of a lion. Guarding the Giza plateau, the Sphinx embodies the strength and wisdom of ancient Egypt.

The Grand Egyptian Museum

A treasure trove of ancient Egyptian artifacts, the Grand Egyptian Museum is a colossal cultural hub. Abu Simbel Temples

These monumental temples were built by Pharaoh Ramesses II (1279-1213 BC) in 1264 BC, carved directly into the mountainside. The temples celebrate the power and glory of the Pharaoh and his queen, Nefertari. Twice a year, the sun aligns perfectly with the temple to illuminate the statues of the gods in a remarkable natural event. These temples also commemorate the signing of the first known peace treaty in human history after the Battle of Kadesh.
